Why you're better off with private health insurance

Private health insurance puts you in control of your health care.

Peace of mind

Get access to care, hospital admissions and medical treatment when you need it! Hospital accommodation, theatre fees and intensive care covered according to gold, silver, bronze or basic clinical categories.

Choose your care

Choose your doctor, specialist and the private hospital you're treated in. Unlike the public system where you're assigned a doctor by the hospital, private hospital cover gives you continuity of care with the specialist of your choice. Your doctor can then treat you at one of the hundreds of agreement private hospitals across Australia.

Skip the queues

Don't be left lingering on the public hospital waiting list. Private hospital cover provides you with the treatment you need almost immediately. That's why most elective surgeries performed in Australia are undertaken in private hospitals.*

Get money back on extras

General treatment is the everyday health care that helps keep you well. Extras cover lowers the cost of visiting the dentist, chiropractor, physiotherapist, optometrist, psychologist or other general treatment providers.

Avoid government penalties

Lifetime Health Cover adds to the cost of premiums for people who take out hospital cover after they've turned 31. So if you wait until you're 40, you'll pay 20% more than someone on the same cover who joined when they were 30 (special provisions apply to permanent ADF members). And depending on your income, the Medicare Levy Surcharge could mean extra tax for serving members if you don't have hospital cover for your dependants. Find out more at defencehealth.com.au

Take advantage of the government rebate

The government understands the value of private health insurance to the health sector. That's why it helps to reduce the cost of private hospital and extras cover through the Australian Government Rebate on private health insurance. The amount of rebate is determined by income and the age of the oldest person on the policy. Find out more at defencehealth.com.au

Ambulance cover

Even a short ride in an ambulance can be costly. Some of the ambulance trips we pay for cost $10,000, $12,000, $13,000 – and sometimes even more! Private health insurance can cover you for air, sea or road ambulance services by a state-appointed ambulance provider – Australia wide! Refer to product guide for further info including what's not covered.

How to choose the right cover

Gold, silver, bronze or basic... which one's right for me?

The gold, silver, bronze and basic tiers of hospital cover give you the certainty of what's included. And importantly, what's excluded from the cover you choose.

The tiers set the standard for all health funds.

Each tier must include the standard clinical treatment categories assigned to that tier. If there's a 'plus' in the name, then more than the minimum is included.

We've presented some typical lifestages on these pages and how they might fit with our levels of cover.

Please look closely at the included (and excluded) clinical treatment within each tier to ensure the cover meets your needs.

What general treatment benefits can I receive?

The level of extras benefits and the range of treatment options increases according to the level of cover you choose. Annual limits apply to most of the benefits and these reset from 1 July each year. Ambulance cover is included in all our extras cover.

The table above outlines the type of general treatment you can access in our mid and top-level extras. Go to our website for a quote and the detail on the benefits available.

Important information

Health insurance is highly regulated by the government. Defence Health provides extensive online information – or we're happy to have a chat – to help you understand how health insurance works and how you can maximise its value.

Here is some important information you should keep in mind as you consider your health insurance options.

Waiting periods

When you take out cover for the first time, or if you upgrade your cover, a waiting period may apply before you can receive benefits for treatment and make a claim for new or higher benefits. If you transfer to Defence Health from an equivalent level of cover with another fund, the waiting periods you've already served (on included services) will be honoured by us. The removal of an excess or co-payment are considered an 'upgrade' and are also affected by waiting periods. All waiting periods need to be re-served after a break in cover of more than 60 days.

12-month waiting period applies for:

- pre-existing conditions (except hospital psychiatric services, rehabilitation and palliative care)
- pregnancy and birth and midwifery home/registered hospital birthing facility delivery
- major dental and orthodontic treatment
- laser refractive eye surgery
- most devices, aids and appliances.

2-month waiting period applies for:

- hospital psychiatric services, rehabilitation and palliative care
- all other hospital clinical treatment
- all other extras treatment
- cover for an accident is immediate, including ambulance services.

Pre-existing conditions

It is super-important to understand the rule and 12-month waiting period for pre-existing conditions. An ailment, illness or condition may not have been formally diagnosed. But if a medical advisor believes signs or symptoms would have existed in the six months before joining or upgrading cover, a 12-month waiting period will apply for treatment of that condition. We don't make the decision. But we may ask your doctor to assist our appointed medical advisor if you need treatment in the first 12 months of membership. You should talk to us before going to hospital.

Excess

An excess is payable once per adult, per financial year for a same-day or overnight hospital admission. A higher excess means a lower premium. Kids do not pay an excess.

Extras benefits and limits

Most extras benefits are paid according to limits available to each person on the policy, in each financial year. Some services are not claimable every year. Depending on the type of treatment, an item, program or sub-limit may apply. Once the limit is reached, no further benefits can be claimed until the limits re-set. Most limits re-set on 1 July each year.

Providers of extras treatment must be registered with their professional body and alternative therapists must be recognised by the Australian Regional Health Group. All extras product guides and available limits can be downloaded from defencehealth.com.au

Payment of hospital and medical benefits

At one of the hundreds of agreement hospitals in Australia, Defence Health will cover the hospital charges for clinical treatment that's included in your level of hospital cover. At a non-agreement hospital you may have significant out-of-pocket expenses. Search our list of agreement hospitals at the 'find providers and hospitals' tab on our website.

The Medicare Benefits Schedule (MBS) is the government's price list for all medical procedures. Medicare and Defence Health will cover 100% of the MBS fee for private hospital treatment that's included in your cover. If the medical specialists involved in your treatment charge more than the MBS fee you will have an out-of-pocket expense. They must inform you of these costs, before you receive treatment.

We encourage all members to ask their doctors to use Access Gap to reduce or eliminate these out-of-pocket medical costs. In return for us paying the doctor a slightly higher amount towards a medical procedure, the doctor agrees to charge a lower fee. You can search for doctors who may participate in Access Gap the 'find an Access Gap doctor' tab on our website.

For more than 70 years Defence Health has protected the health of those who protect our country.

For great value health insurance, and genuine care, support and expertise, we're here for you.

Fund rules

Hospital and extras benefits are paid according to the Defence Health Fund Rules. You can download a current copy of the rules from defencehealth.com.au

Cooling off period

We'd love to welcome you to the family. But if you join and then change your mind within 30 days, and you haven't made a claim, we'll cancel your membership and refund any premiums you've paid. All you need to do is give us a call or write to us.
